Saturday, October 8. 1709.

IN some of the Reviews last I enter'd into the Detail of some material Things, which it will be necessary to enquire into in the Course of this Paper relating to Scotland— We have, as I noted, a new Dispute coming upon the Stage in Scotland—and which, I foresee, will bring on with it a great Deal of Mischief; and this obliges me to speak of it, I mean, the imposing the Common-Prayer Book upon the Scots.

Nothing is more sure, than that this impudent Attempt is against the Laws and Constitution of Scotland, against the Act of Security, and against the Union: But that which is the most remarkable of all is, That it is against her Majesty's Will and profes'd Intention; and tho' the People concern'd it have had the Face to say, and to deceive some People with the Suggestion, that her Majesty would encourage it; nay, and a certain superannuated B, whom sew regard, that has long since remember'd to forget himself, and forgot to remember, has given them Assurances of it, yet the QUEEN has been graciously pleas'd expressly to disclaim and disown it, and has repeated her Royal Promise to the Establish'd Church of Scotland, that they shall be protested by her against all Manner of Invasions or Innovations, according to the express Terms of the Union.

However,

However, all this is not sufficient to cheque the Infolence of these People; and therefore baving gotten a profligate Fellow that has taken the Oaths, (and such no doubt: will be found in any Reign) a poor Vicar of 15 l. a Year Revenue in Ireland, he fet up the Common-Prayer Book in Edinburgh at the very Cross, just in the Face of Authority, as I mention'd in my former.

It will not be amile, fince this Novelty is like to make some Neise in the World, to give a true Account both of the Thing and of the Man; of the Thing I thall fay nothing but what is Matter of Fact-and of the Man nothing but what comes from his own Mouth.

For himself being cited before the Pres-bytery of Edinburgh, he declines their Aushority; but the Account he given of himfelf to them and to other People, is this.

That he is a Store Man born, named Greenshields, that he came last out of freland, where he had a Living at Fram, of about 14 or 15 ?. per Aim. that he came over to Scotland to make Friends for a better Living, that he is invited here to fer up the Common, Prayerfor which he has been promis'd, or propos'd, 80 J. per Annum.

NOTE-It was alledg'd, this was for the Me of the English Gentlemen, who have Places in the Customs, Excile, and Ex-shequer of Scotland, who could not in Concience comply with the Bstablish'd Church But this was prefeatly difclaim'd by all the principal Officers of every Office, under their Hands, . . toher are any of them feen to follow him

2. Being affe'd by what Authority be preach'd, he tolls them, He is a Mini-fter of the Church of England—And by Vertue of that Appellation, he declines the Authority of the Church of Susland, and refuses to own the Presbreeny to but being requir'd to show his-Ordination, it appears truly, he is ordain'd by a Non-juror Exaultorate depos'd Bishop of Scotland, Viz. the ate Bishop of Ross, and the Words or

Tenour of his Letters of Ordination run thus, in Ujum Ecclefia Scoticana. This Prevarication expos'd him not a little—But to come off of this, he came up with the finest new Fetch. that ever was yet flarted in all this Controversie, and which you must hear of again in this Paper; for upon this perhaps will bang a Tale or two. And this was,

2. That he lays, the Episcopal Church of From. Is encorporated into the Church of England by the Act of Union, and therefore he being ordain d a Minister of the Episcopal Church of Scotland. he becomes thereby a Minister of the Church of England, and so is empower'd to read the Common-Prayer in any Part of Scotland:

This, I must confess, is a very merry Story; and were not the Peace of two Nations fo much concern'd, I should make Sport enough with it; but fince the Church of Angland feems to be very much concerned in this new flared Sentife Bookine, I would be glad to offer two or three Queries in this Case for the People to answer, who are thus invading the Church of Scotland or for the Gentlemen of the Church of English to defends

1. Have the depos d' Exauttorate Bishopa. Power to ordain Ministers in the Church, after they themselves are depos'd? And if this Part of their Office remains, how can they be fild to be depos'd?

2. How can they, who refuse to ownship Church of England, but effeem h Schismatical, ordain Minifters in Church which they do not belong to, and which disowns them? --- And how can the Church of England depole them from the Office, and yet permit them to exercise that Office in the Church ?

3. How has the Union encorporated the Apiscopal Church of Schland into the Church of England? - And who is it they call the Church of England, which are to encorporated?

4 If

4. If the Epilcopal Church of Scaland is encorporated into the Jacobie Non-juring Part of the Church of England, the Presbyrerian Church of Scotland, and the Church of England also, had best have a Care of the Effects of that

. If they are encorporated into the Revolution-Part of the Church of England—Then are they oblig'd by their own A& and Deed in Parliament affented to by the Sovereign, and actually voted by the Bishops of the Church of England, to protect and defend the Purity and Uniformity of the Worthip, Discipline, and Govern-ment of the Church of Scotland, as now Establish's, WITHOUT ANY ALTERATION, to all succeeding Generations—And let them come off of this if they can- And let them chew upon the Word Any Alteration, and tellime, if tollerating Innovations of Worthip, Corruption of Discipline, and difowning, Church-Government, can be excluded out of the Word Any Alteration, or no?

To fuch Absurdities has this poor Wretch driven himfelf, and all to cover a notorious Equivocation, and reconcile his Sentifi Or-dination, with his calling himself an English Monther—and calling himself ordanid, when done by him that had no Power to ordain, being depos'd and depriv'd, and no more to be efteem'd an Officer in the Church.

And here it may be very well worth while to note, how some of our English Clargy, who seemingly own the Government, I fay feemingly, because we have a Race of Men, who can take Oaths to the QUEEN, and yet profess themselves Jacq-Mes Now, among thefe, it is a mefancholly Thing to fay, we have fome, even among the Sons of the Prophets—who, tho' they possess the Dignities of the Church of England, yet were not asham'd to jo in a late Defign, not to accept only of the Ordination of Facobite depor'd Bilbops, but to obtain of the QUEEN a Power to those depos'd Bishops to elect and confe-crate other Bishops Nominal, to the vacant Sees, thereby to keep up the Succession, attablish Jacobirism—and really erect House topacy, after it has been by the Laws of the Nation Suppress'd.

After this, it had been a fmall Matter to have sik'd decent Stipends out of the Church Revenues, formerly conficate to fublift the Gentlemen with some Respect to their Dignity—and so they had had both the Dignity, the Name, and the Revenue; as for the Cure, they could have been content to have left the Flock, fo they had but got the Flence.

But her Majesty's Firmacia to her Homour, to the Royal Principle of Truth, her Majefty's Scale of Justice, and of what Bagagements the present Establish'd Gogers ment was in, to the Defence and Support of the Presidential Church; These were the invincible Bulwarks which defeated all this Undertaking Assistant Repeated at this Undertaking Assistant Repeated at this undertaking Assistant Repeated at this undertaking Assistant Repeated at the Repeated R after he had arm'd for the dethroning %4sobite Principles, after the Church he hel to govern had depos'd facebrism, deprived effectually, as well Bishops as others, all the Clergy in England that would not swear to the present Establishment; that he of all Men thould emback in building that up in Scotland, which he proteis'd to pull down in England, to cred a Jacobite Race of Clergy. and establish a Succession of Non-jurges, and thus bring the Church of England upon the Stage, playing Leger-de-main with the World , pulling down with one hand, an building up with the other --- This is such an Evidence of Principles, that they, who can expect any thing after it, ought to be rank a among that Race, whom Providence has deprived of their Under-Standing.

Well, be it that they are disappointed in this Project of exciting Nominal Bishops, a ha-mode the titular Popish Bishops of Preland - They resolve however to keep up the Faction, by the prefent Zusufforate. Bishops that remain continuing to exercise the Office of Bishop, notwithstanding their being depriv'd— And this is what is recommended most humbly to the Consideration of the Church of England—and their Practice must be the best Answer to it, whether they will accept of this Facobite Succession of Clergy, as duly anointed for the Office of a Church of England Minister——If they do—I think, they may encorporate with the Episcopal Nonjurors of Scotland indeed—and carry on the Distinction no farther: If they do not, then they must discount this new Assauce, and cast off the spurious Breed, that we may know these Goats from the true Sheep, and may no longer be imposed upon by Disguises and Masks——The Assaucing on the Lyon's Skin, and Wolves in Sheeps Clothing.

I cannot also but give one Hint more to the Clergy of the Church of England, which, if they please to accept, may, I am sure, be of no ill Use to them—And that is concerning their giving Orders to Persons coming out of Scotland into England, without any Certifications from Scotland of their Morals and Behaviour.

To lay they cannot obtain such Certificates from the Presbyteries, is to say nothing——There are Episcopal Ministers enough now actually preaching in the Parish-Churches in Scotland, from whom Certificates may be obtain'd; nay, even the Differting Non-jurant Clergy are not without some among them, who would not so far encourage Vice, as to recommend such scandalous Persons as are daily admitted.

For Want of this due Caution, the vilett Wretches, that fly from the Laws for abhor'd Vices, come up to England, and there get Admission to the Sacred Office, to the Standal of Religion, and the English Church-Discipline in particular

And if they want to have Instances of this given, they are but too case and too publick.
